

The image shows a bright, modern interior space, likely a lounge or event venue. A large window in the background allows natural light to flood the room, creating a grid pattern on the floor. In the center, there is a seating area with a dark blue sofa and two armchairs. To the left, a staircase with a metal railing leads up. Several potted plants are placed throughout the space. The ceiling features exposed pipes and track lighting. The overall atmosphere is clean, open, and professional.

The Artists For Humanity EpiCenter is the first Platinum LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) certified building in Boston. The Artists For Humanity EpiCenter is a finalist for the 2010 Harleston Parker Medal, a unique award presented periodically to the “most beautiful building” in the greater Boston area by the Boston Society of Architects and the City of Boston.

Artists For Humanity works to provide Boston youth with the keys to self-sufficiency through paid employment in the arts. We are built on the philosophy that art and the creative process is a life changing and productive opportunity for young people.

The Artists For Humanity EpiCenter welcomes all types of events and private functions, from intimate dinners for 50 to cocktail receptions for 700. The 5,000 square foot Lewis Gallery seats up to 500 guests theater style and 300 for dining.

The 18 foot ceiling enhances the versatile ambiance of the Lewis and mezzanine galleries. South facing windows provide excellent natural lighting. A floor to ceiling “garage style” glass door opens onto an adjoining courtyard that offers an additional 1,200 square feet, weather permitting.

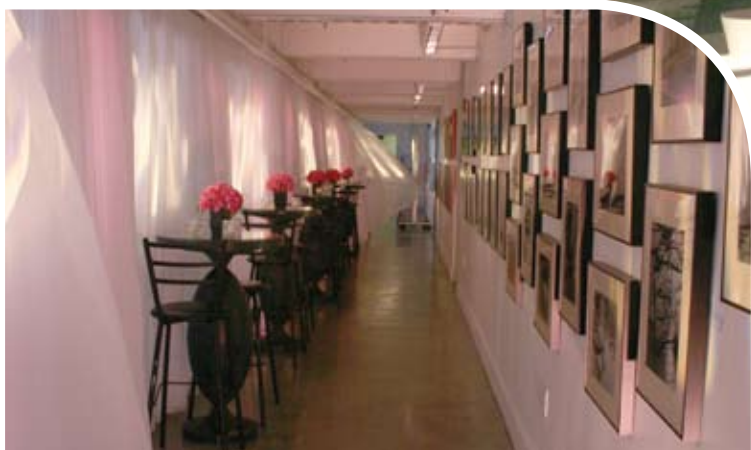

Common events become extraordinary events when produced in this uncommon setting. Gallery walls exhibiting Boston urban teen photographs and painting make a uniquely art filled venue to enhance your special event.
